May They Rest in Peace

E-MAIL received from His Grace Archbishop Diarmuid Martin

Pope Francis has launched a special appeal for humanitarian aid for UKRAINE, "I think in Europe of the tragedy of those who are suffering the consequences of violence in UKRAINE: of those who remain in lands shocked by the hostilities which have already caused thousands of deaths and of those—over a million – forced to flee from the grave situation which is ongoing . It involves elderly people and children. Besides accompanying them with my constant prayers and thoughts, I have decided to promote humanitarian support in their favour. For this purpose a special collection will be taken up in all Catholic Churches in Europe next weekend . I invite the faithful to join with this initiative with a generous contribution. This act of charity, in addition to alleviating material suffering seeks to express my personal closeness and solidarity and that of the entire Church. I sincerely hope that it may help promote, without further delay, peace and respect for law in the land so afflicted". Pope Francis Next weekend 50% of the ordinary Share collection will be donated to the Pope's appeal, and I ask for your generosity. Archbishop Diarmuid Martin: Archbishop of Dublin

COMFORT

We naturally want to avoid pain and to relieve it in those we love. The sources of comfort available may be limited, but they are nonetheless real. Medical science has made great progress in learning how to relieve pain. Religion has been a source of strength to the afflicted over the centuries. A profound faith in God and in His love for all creatures has carried innumerable people through the agonising crises of life. Personal concern has often supplied comfort...the silent presence of a friend...a hand on the shoulder...a smile...a heartfelt embrace...a sensitive and kind word. One counsellor put it this way; "A love that shoulders other peoples suffering has the last word over meaningless suffering".
